

Prashant Patel

FullStack Web Developer

About Me

I am a self-taught web developer.

With powerfull front-end skills, I am able to convert any given design or layout taking from simple to complex in web using HTML/CSS or React Javascript framework.

I am also able to write backend codes with using Node.js with help of Express.js library.

I can make database using Postgresql.

With above said, most importantly I have the most important skill which is must for any developer - how to read documentations of any given technology and implement them on projects.
